

Look for Changes

(date)

We used a standard sign format
to tell public (and staff)
of changes we made in our library.

It's a quick, easy and consistent way to communicate that change is coming (or here).

The free graphic is from Microsoft Office Online,
<http://office.microsoft.com/clipart/default.aspx>
Search clip art for "blueprints women".

This change is part of a statewide demonstration site to show how to use visual merchandising techniques in a library setting.

This project will fund new book and multimedia shelves and display fixtures, slat wall with shelves and accessories, comfortable seating, plus new lighting and signage.

This is a joint project funded by the New Jersey State Library, the South Jersey Regional Library Cooperative and the Mount Laurel Library.